Our security measures include regular system checks, vulnerability scanning, and monitoring to ensure the protection of your data and the integrity of our infrastructure.

As part of our service agreement, it is strictly prohibited to hide or obscure any content hosted on our servers or virtual machines. We require full transparency regarding the data and applications you store on our systems. This transparency is essential for maintaining the trust and quality of our service, as it enables us to provide secure and reliable hosting solutions.

We are a trusted provider because your data is shared across secure network environments within our machines, where robust security protocols are in place to safeguard against unauthorized access or breaches.

12. Prohibited Actions: Hiding SSH Access and Malicious Activity

RENODE SPACE strictly prohibits any attempt to hide SSH access, obscure login credentials, or engage in any form of malicious activity on our servers or virtual machines. The following outlines the prohibited actions, our response procedures, and the consequences for violations:

Prohibited Actions:

- Hiding SSH Access: Any effort to conceal SSH access, alter SSH configuration files to bypass our monitoring, or use unauthorized SSH keys will be considered a violation of our security policies. All SSH access points must remain transparent and accessible for security monitoring purposes.
- Obscuring or Encrypting Malicious Files: Attempting to hide or encrypt files, applications, or data with the intention of preventing detection by our security systems is strictly prohibited. This includes, but is not limited to, the use of encryption tools to mask harmful activities such as botnets, DDoS attacks, or the distribution of malware.
- Engaging in Malicious Activity: Any attempt to exploit our servers for malicious purposes, such as launching attacks on other networks, hosting illegal content, or using the infrastructure for criminal activities, will result in immediate termination of services.

Prevention and Blocking:

- Security Monitoring: RENODESPACE deploys comprehensive monitoring tools to detect unauthorized SSH access, hidden files, or malicious actions. Our security systems continuously scan for irregularities or suspicious behavior, including attempts to bypass access controls or tamper with system settings.
- Immediate Response: If we detect any attempt to hide SSH access or engage in malicious activities, RENODESPACE will immediately block access to the affected servers or virtual machines. This includes suspending your account and preventing further use of our services.
- Non-Refundable Policy: In cases where we identify prohibited actions, such as attempts to hide SSH access or engage in malicious activity, RENODESPACE will not issue refunds for any unused services. By agreeing to these terms, you acknowledge that violations of our security policies result in the forfeiture of any payments made, and no refunds will be provided.
- Termination of Services: Repeated violations or severe breaches of security, including any attempt to hide SSH access or engage in illegal activities, will lead to the permanent termination of your account and a ban from using our services in the future.
